Spring Edition

September 2008 Volume 3 Issue 2

Hello Everyone!

Here we are on the eve of Spring for 2008, how amazing is that, our year has moved just so quickly, with so much going on, everyone of us has perhaps had difficulty keeping up. I know I have. This last month of August has put pressure on us all to sort out the stuff that we need to release.....as it were, and embrace the newness of energies presented through the many heavenly shifts and the seasonal change of Spring.... Interesting times..... Plus this month of August is our Birthday and we have reached the grand age of 9 years old. So Happy Birthday to all members of our little gathering. What an amazing 9 years it has been wouldn't you say?

Many of our church members came with me to Nelson Bay and shared their individual gifts with many many people at a spiritual expo down there, what a wonderful weekend that was, with requests by many to do it all again in feb next year. Wow! Exciting stuff!

I also wish to give thanks to our wonderful lady that gifted a $1,000.00 over the last few months to our funds, it is so very much appreciated, thank you from us all.

Well, if I want to take this with me today I better finish and get this printed Take care ☺

Love & Blessings

The best day of your life is the one on which you decide your life is your own.
No apologies or excuses.
No one to lean on, rely on, or blame.
The gift is yours - it is an amazing journey -
and you alone are responsible for the quality of it.
This is the day your life really begins."

The Precious Gift

Author Unknown

Once upon a time, when God had finished making the world, he wanted to leave behind a piece of His own divinity, a spark of His essence, a promise to man of what he could become, with effort. He looked for a place to hide this precious gift because, He explained, what man could find too easily would never be valued by him.

"Then you must hide this gift on the highest mountain peak on earth," said one of his counsellors.

God shook His head, "No, for man is an adventuresome creature and he will soon enough learn to climb the highest mountain peaks."

"Hide it then, O Great One, in the depths of the earth."

"I think not," said God. "for man will one day discover that he can dig into the deepest parts of the earth."

"In the middle of the ocean then, Master?"

God shook His head. "I've given man a brain, you see, and one day he'll learn to build ships and cross the mightiest oceans."

"Where then, Master?" cried His counsellors.

God smiled, "I'll hide it where every man and woman will be able to find it if they look sincerely and deeply enough. I'll hide it in their heart."

Words Of A Feather

"There was once a man who loved to gossip. He loved the attention it brought him, and could not stop himself from speaking about others, sometimes sharing the good they did, but most often sharing the mistakes they made.

"In time, however, he realized the harm his speech was causing and he sought to make amends. He went to his rabbi and explained the situation, and asked how he could make amends.

"The rabbi thought for a moment and instructed the man to go to the marketplace and purchase two of the finest feather pillows he could find. He should then take the pillows to the top of the mountain overlooking the village, tear them open, and spill the feathers into the wind.

"The man was surprised and pleased at the rabbi's advice. He thought repentance would be much harder than this. So he ran to the marketplace, purchased his pillows, and within an hour had scattered their feathers to the wind.

"He returned to the rabbi all aglow. He was ready to be forgiven for his gossiping. Not just yet, the rabbi told him. There was one more thing to do. He had to return to the mountain and repack the pillows with the feathers that he had scattered.

"'But that's impossible,' the man said. 'Those feathers have gone everywhere, there is no way I can take them back now.'"

"The rabbi nodded solemnly and said, 'What is true of the feathers is true of the words. Once spoken they can never be retrieved. The harm caused by gossip cannot be undone.'"

from The Sacred Art of Lovingkindness

The way we speak of others, whether we build them up or tear them down, does make an unretractable impact. More often than not, we have a tendency to speak just for the sake of speaking, without paying close attention to the words we say or realizing the impact they might have. What a service we do ourselves and our world, when we commit to speaking only those words that are true, kind, and absolutely necessary.

May the words you speak always reflect the best in you.

May your days be filled with all things good,

So...what's on Around Tamworth?
